Plastics & Rubber Indonesia South East Asia's No 1 Event!

Supported by:

Organised by:

Plastics & Rubber Indonesia continues to buck the trend. Whilst other events in this sector in South East Asia have struggled to find an audience and international supplier support, Plastics & Rubber Indonesia continues to thrive.

The 2012 edition broke records in terms of exhibitors, international pavilions and trade visitorship. The show grew by 15% in size and 6% in audience highlighting the huge market potential Indonesia has to offer.

"We believe that given the current positive market conditions and growing demand for innovations in the plastics and rubber industries in Indonesia, we are only just beginning to realise the potential of the Plastics & Rubber Indonesia show. As the biggest and most international show for the sector in the biggest market in South East Asia, we believe Plastics & Rubber Indonesia has a significant role to play as a regional event going forward." Wiwiek Roberto, Senior Project Manager at organisers Pamerindo Indonesia.

PRESENT YOUR SOLUTIONS AT SOUTH EAST ASIA'S

INDONESIA: South East Asia's biggest plastics & rubber market

- With a wealthy middle class of over 30 million, Indonesia is a bigger market for plastics products than Malaysia, Thailand and Singapore combined. Government policy targets 70% of plastics products to be produced domestically - increasing demand for the latest production technology throughout the country's manufacturing and processing industries.
- Indonesia's plastics industry is growing at over 7.5% per year and set to continue upwards in the coming years. Major industry sectors fuelling growth include: aerospace, automotive & motorcycles, electrical & electronics, food & drinks furniture, household appliances, medical and healthcare and packaging.
- Demand for raw plastic materials is increasing and plastic pellet manufacturers and plastic converters are increasing investments as the raw materials cannot be sufficiently produced in Indonesia.
- As the world's second largest rubber producer and exporter, Indonesia will become the number 1 producer by 2020 with annual production forecast to reach 4 million tons or 31% of the world's total natural rubber production. The government will utilize the increased revenue to revitalize the rubber processing industry and maximise added value within Indonesia, stimulating the demand for processing technology and production machinery.
- Multi-billion dollar foreign direct investments in this sector are the order of the day, including South Korea's Hankook Tire's recent announcement of a $1.2 billion investment in a new tyre manufacturing plant.

NO 1 EVENT

DELIVERING MEASURABLE RESULTS:

Exhibitors feedback was extremely positive
& many have already secured space for 2013

“ This year’s Plastics and Rubber Indonesia was professionally organized and a great show for Kiefel and PackSys Global, both members of the Brueckner Group. The interest in our technologies was high and we were able to socialize with new potential customers as well as meet our existing partners. ”

Mr. Volker Schubert, Area Sales Manager, KIEFEL (Germany)

“ One great exhibition and we will come back next year. ”

Mr. Franky Morris H. Hutapea, President Director
FUJIKIKAI KOGYO CO., LTD / HAGIHARA INDUSTRIES INC. / PT VICTORY BLESSINGS (Indonesia)

“ Plastics & Rubber Indonesia 2012 has been an unforgettable show. It has given me so many positive impressions about Indonesia and its potential market. I will share my impressions with the member companies of PAGDER in the shortest time possible and plan to bring a participation next year. ”

Ferit Öztimur, PAGDER Board Member - International Relations, PAGDER (Turkey)

“ The visitor quality was much better than in 2011 and the enquiries we received were of a very high level. ”

Corné Verstraten, Malaysian Chief Representative, KREYENBORG (Germany)
